

INTRODUCING AGED CARE MATTERS

News, industry updates, education and events delivered straight to your inbox each month.

Aged Care Matters is a free, monthly newsletter designed specifically for people working in the aged care sector to bring you the latest news, industry updates, education and events from across the region.

About Us

Central Queensland, Wide Bay, Sunshine Coast Primary Health Network (PHN) is an independent not for profit commissioning agency funded by the Australian Government to create healthier communities.

Our key priority is to ensure that as people age, they are valued, and empowered to live the life of their choice. We support older people to stay healthy and independent, ensure adequate care is accessible, and contribute to a sustainable and equitable aged care system.

How can we assist you?

The PHN Older Person's Health and Palliative Care team is your local network for all things relating to older person's health and palliative care. We offer:

- access to resources on Health Pathways, MBS and clinical handover
- opportunities for consultation and collaboration
- professional development and education events
- networking opportunities

The team looks forward to hearing from you. Further information on how we can support you is available on the PHN website here.

A NEWSLETTER FOR YOU

Aged Care Matters is a compilation of the most relevant information for the residential aged care sector, with regular contributions from the Department of Health, state and national peak bodies and industry stakeholders, all in one place.

"As a service provider, we have been well supported by Central Queensland, Wide Bay, Sunshine Coast PHN. The PHN team provides useful information, they listen to feedback, and it's reassuring to be able to access a reliable source of truth instead of having to search for it. When we need expertise, they arrive on site to share information and provide education on topics such as Health Pathways, electronic access and networking opportunities. This allows us to get on with serving the community."
